PROUD CANNERS—Mrs. Arnold Evans and son, Kelly, admire the vegetables they have canned from their garden in their yard, 683 Percy Street. After supplying their Summer table needs and having enough to share with others, the Evanses now have a good stock of foods for their Winter meals. They know the importance of a balanced diet the year around.

Evans Family Finds Gardening Can Be Fun

"Hello, Mrs. Jones. This is Kelly Evans. I have some nice ripe tomatoes today and some snap beans . . . You can use two pounds of tomatoes? All right, I'll bring them right over."

Telephone conversations like this have been commonplace this summer at 683 Percy Street which is the home of the Arnold Evans family. Mr. Evans, an assistant overseer in the weave room at White Oak Plant, has done most of the "farming" with the assistance of [illegible]te, Thelma, and son, Kelly. Kelly has sold garden produce for his own money, while his mother has canned quantities of vegetables and fruits. Young Kelly has helped with the preserving, too, and has done his share of eating the fresh fruits and vegetables as they come from the garden.

SUCCESSFUL GARDENER — Arnold Evans, assistant overseer in the Weaving Department at White Oak Plant, admires an ear of corn on one of the healthy stalks in his garden.

The Evanses, whose house sits on a city lot about 80 by 150 feet, do their gardening and canning as a hobby. Their garden occupies a rectangle a little larger than 50 by 60 feet. The products include peaches, pears, figs, and plums as well as a long list of such vegetables as tomatoes (40 plants), cucumbers, evergreen corn, butter beans, snap beans, okra, carrots, peppers, irish potatoes, and popcorn. There are also assorted flowers including snow-on-the-mountain, brilliant red amaranth, marigolds, hollyhocks, and dahlias.

Besides the vegetables eaten, sold, and canned, Mrs. Evans proudly displays a group of 65 jars of jelly and fruit preserves. These are largely plum and peach, making a colorful display in jars of varied sizes.

Arnold Evans says that gardening is a fine hobby. It provides exercise, loads of pleasure and satisfaction, and luscious foods, too.

Haynes Biography Is Inspiring Book

An inspiring history of the life and achievements of Raleigh Rutherford Haynes, founder of Cliffside Mills at Cliffside and its Haynes Plant at Avondale, (now Cliffside and Haynes Plants of Cone Mills Corporation) has just been published by Miller Printing Company of Asheville. The well-written and interesting biography of the father of Charles Haynes, a director of Cone Mills Corporation, is by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Grover C. Haynes, Sr.

The book states:

"The charter for Cliffside Mills was issued on February 4, 1901 with the following as charter stockholders: R. R. Haynes, Dr. T. B. Lovelace, L. A. Holland, Dr. J. F. Whisnant, Gaither Kennedy, and Henry Jenkins.

"Later Moses H. and Ceasar Cone of Greensboro, N. C., as well as other friends of R. R. Haynes became stockholders in the Corporation.

"The friendship between R. R. Haynes and the Cone family was formed back in the 1880's, when the three Cone brothers, Moses H., Ceasar and Julius made trips through North Carolina selling goods for their wholesale grocery business. R. R. Haynes was one of his customers, buying goods for his Ferry store. Later on the Cones

He told them that while playing ball, each man should play with all his effort, play to win as long as he plays fair and have good sportsmanship by showing that he can win or lose.

Also congratulating the team were Bill White, of the City Recreation Department; Dutch Garner, coach of the team, and Clarence N. Cone, vice president of Cone Mills Corporation, who awarded a trophy to Douglas Travis, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Travis, 1505 Walnut Street, for being the outstanding player on the team. The program for the August 30 meeting will be as follows: toastmaster, Fred Ziprik; topicmaster, L. R. Robertson; evaluator, Guest; speakers, Norman Pinkelton, Jim Ward, Merlin Beaver, Byron Calhoun.

"Remember, if you are interested in public speaking, you are invited to join the Cone Toastmasters," states Wayne Cates.

Neighbors Are Busy Canning Fresh Foods

Mrs. Will Newnam and Mrs. James F. Solomon have joined the ranks of first-rate canners of fresh produce, in preparation of that "rainy day."

Mrs. Newnam has had the advantage in that her garden, fresh vegetables are from her own backyard plot. She has been able to can peas, butter beans, tomatoes and soup mixture.

Mrs. Solomon has added a variety to her shelves, which will play a major role in a better fed family this winter.

These two homemakers are thoroughly famaliar with the pressure canners and use it for all their non-acid vegetables, according to directions and methods of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. Bulletins are available free of charge for all who wish to have them.

Fruits and vegetables are too scarce and expensive and time spent in canning too valuable to take a chance on methods used perhaps have spoilage of food.

Mrs. Lowell Steele has bulletins for all who wish them.

Print Works Team Wins Softball Tournament

Jerry Ann Moore Is Graduate Nurse

Miss Jerry Ann Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Allred, 1210 18th Street, graduated from North Carolina Baptist Hospital School of Nursing, Winston-Salem, on August 15.

The new graduate nurse attended Ceasar Cone School and Proximity School and graduated from Greensboro Senior High School in 1951. She entered the nursing school in the Fall of the same year. After September 14, she will be on the Baptist Hospital staff.

Local people attending the graduating exercises at First Baptist Church, Winston-Salem, were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Allred, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Beaver and daughter, Merlyn, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Redding and daughters, Jean and Rita, Mrs. Harold L. Carter and Mrs. Milton W. Roberts.

In copping the title they subdued a highly favored Rayon Plant team, 9-8 in the finals. The Rayon team entered the finals the hard way by being pushed to 10 innings in the morning game with White Oak, and squeezing by a surprisingly strong Proximity Office team that afternoon. Rayon stuck by their "Iron Man" pitcher, Herman Hinshaw in the finals. Herman had pitched two complete games previously that day. Print Works jumped to an early lead and was never headed as the team scored in every inning, tapping Hinshaw for 19 hits.

Rayon fought back couragiously each inning, but they were never quite able to solve the slants of "Big Mo" O'Brien, the Print Works chunker.

The tournament was labeled a great success by the White Oak Y's Men's Club who co-sponsored this event with the Y.M.C.A., however, it was doubtful whether the tournament would be held at all early that morning. The Y's Men awoke to find the playing field covered with water and mud after Friday night's downpour. Between 8 and 11 o'clock Y's Men swarmed over the field in an effort to have the field ready for the first game. They succeeded by burning the infield with gasoline.

Upsets took their toll early in the day's games as a stubborn Haw River team fought back and finally won over a surprised Proximity Plant team, 13-12. Haw River met its waterloo later in the day as the champion Print Works team, behind pitcher and outstanding player of the tournament, Cleo Pegram, rolled them over, 7-4.

OUTSTANDING PLAYER—Cleo Pegram, member of the Print Works Team, was awarded the trophy for being the Invitational Tournament's outstanding player last Saturday. White Oak Y's Men's Club vice president Arthur Bailiff, makes the presentation.

Committee Member

Sidney Bluhm, Cone Mills Cotton Department head, has been named a member of the executive committee of the cotton buyers' and classers' division of the North Carolina Textile Manufacturing Association. He is chairman of the committe on Southern mill rules.

Lifting of Eyebrows

The strange behavior by representatives of the English nation is causing the lifting of many eyebrows by those who are anti-Communists. The Atlee delegation to Russia and Red China is extremely significant in view of the fact that officially some of our allies appear to be moving closer to the Communist regimes.

There have been many recent events which have caused bewilderment on the part of the average American. Although our representatives of the administration are not in a position to give public expression to their innermost thoughts, we cannot help but believe that they have been amazed and shocked by recent attitudes and actions by some of our closest allies.

It is true that Mr. Atlee and his associates do not officially represent the English government, although it is a recognized fact that they do represent a sizeable percentage of the population of England.

They have demonstrated recently that they not only desire to be friendly with Russia and Red China, but by their own expressions as reported, we are forced to believe that they in reality endorse the Communist movement.

We have not noted denunciation of them by responsible officials of the English government. We have not even seen adverse comments coming from the Conservative section of the British government or the Conservative press.

The American stand on Communism has not officially changed, and by and large this country seems to be united in its appraisal of the dangers of Communism.

We cannot but wonder whether the recent trends as indicated by European behavior mean that we are to be left isolated as the only true anti-Communist nation. If that is true, we must be realistic and not be fooled by lip service of our allies when actions indicate differently.

It is depressing to believe, but none the less true, that Communism has gained many victories during the last six months.

"Double cross" is a harsh expression, and we hesitate to use it, but we certainly must be on guard against double crossing by some who are supposedly our friends.

We do not intend in any way to underrate the intelligence and ability of representatives of the administration, and particularly our State Department, but we must be sure that we are qualified to match the foreign diplomats who are expertly trained in international strategy.

We sincerely hope that we will not find ourselves in the position that we are forced to conclude that it is "too late" to control the situation and be forced to give way on vital points which are opposed to our conception of freedom and democracy and government.

Every American, regardless of his sphere of activity, can be seriously affected by the growing trend toward Communism.

The poker game was going along fine when one of the players decided it was time to go home. One of the other players said, "What are you, man or mouse?" The other player said "I am a man, my wife is afraid of a mouse."

Speaking Of Public Safety

Curbing the slaughter and destruction of traffic accidents requires much more than modern highways, proper traffic signs, signals and policing.

What is needed—if we are to rid our streets and highways of the accident menace—is better citizenship behind the wheels of motor vehicles.

That is the considered opinion of Edmond C. Powers of Cleveland, Ohio, who for the past nine years has made exhaustive studies of driver and pedestrian behavior and has conferred with federal, state, municipal and county officials from all parts of the country.

"The 38,500 people killed and the 2,140,000 injured last year can be charged mainly to improper driver and pedestrian behavior," he points out.

"It's just plain bad citizenship behind the wheel to drive too fast for conditions, fail to yield the right of way, drive in the wrong lane, operate a vehicle in unsafe mechanical condition, cut in and out of lanes, crash traffic lights, fail to signal turns and stops, loaf in heavy traffic, back recklessly out of driveways, stop or park in 'no parking' areas.

"Nor is the pedestrian a good citizen who 'jay walks,' who bolts across a street without looking, who darts into the street between parked cars, who gets caught in the middle of a thoroughfare by failing to look both ways and who walks in traffic with improper vision or hearing.

"Nor is it good citizenship on the part of parents to permit young people to operate motor vehicles who either temperamentally or physically are unprepared to cope with the hazards of modern traffic.

"What the traffic accident problem needs," Powers concludes, "is drivers and pedestrians who are just as thoughtful and considerate of their fellowman in traffic as they are in their homes, churches, community, social and business life."

There are more than 1,500 varieties of apples in cultivation according to the American Peoples Encyclopedia. Breeding of this fruit through selection and grafting has been in practice since ancient times. Cato in the third century, and Pliny in the first, had noted varieties of apples developed in those days.

Shorthanded?

Just about everybody is fortunate enough to begin life with two good hands. Most of us take this for granted, but have you ever considered what you'd be up against if something really serious happened to one of your hands?

Just suppose you've lost a hand through accident or infection. Now, with the one you have left, take a package of book matches and try to light one. Try to clean your glasses. How fast can you tie your shoes? Let's see you get a coke out of the machine. How are you going to cut your fingernails?

All of these things are only small problems but add another thousand to them and life will get tiresome.

The next time you get a little scratch on your hand, or the next time you are tempted to take a chance with a piece of moving machinery, think it over. Remember, in this case one from two is not quite one.

Vacation Inspires Revolution Employee

John A. Seagraves, 2215 Spruce Street, employed in the Slashing Department of Revolution Flannel Plant, was inspired to write the verse below during his vacation this Summer. With Labor Day around the corner the verse is still timely.

Oh! double goody, vacation time,
We can relax, rest, play and dine.
And watch T.V. to our hearts content,
On Western thrillers we're double bent.

This fine young man adores them all,
Cowboys fat, lean or tall,
Wild Bill Hickock, the Lone Ranger too,
But he has a favorite just like you.

So, if for lack of funds he cannot roam,
He's quite content to stay at home.
When six gun playhouse is on T.V.,
He's just as happy as he can be.

John A. Seagraves

Play Safe

All time is safety time, but especially boys and girls should take precautions when school is out and they are going about enjoying themselves.

Up at the head of the list is swimming and highway precautions.

Youngsters as well as adults will be going swimming. Most of these will be in supervised pools while others will be away on rivers and lakes. Each of us must have it drilled into us that water takes lives and cars kill on the highways. Always have someone with you when you go swimming; don't go in deep water, even if you are a good swimmer without someone near. Don't swim right after eating; don't take chances while swimming or fishing.

Watch for streets, highways and roads when you must cross or travel them. Walk on the proper side of the road and never try to cross unless all is clear.

Like the reminder to wash up at meal time, parents should remind their children at all times about these dangers.

(The Commentator)

With all the rain on Friday night there was lot of hustling from the players and White Oak Y's Men Club on Saturday morning to get the fields in shape before time for tournament to begin.

In the first round of the ten o'clock games Rayon plant defeated White Oak plant 2 to 1 in ten innings and Proximity Office defeated Revolution Payroll 11 to 2. Herman Hinshaw for Rayon and John Smith for White Oak pitched exceptionaly good ball for the most outstanding game of the day. It was in the top of the ninth with the score 0 to 0, that Ira Pinkelton hit a triple and scored on the next man up when the ball was played to first. Rayon scored on Herman Hinshaw's long hit ball to left field when it was errored to tie the game up. It was in the bottom of the tenth that Jack Hughes tripled and Rudy Cox singled that won the game for Rayon. Herman Hinshaw gave up five hits and John Smith six hits.

In the twelve o'clock games, also in the first round, Haw River upset the strong Proximity plant, 13 to 12. and Print Works defeated Pineville, 6 to 5. Proximity plant took a 9 to 0 lead in the bottom of the fourth and then Haw River took the advantage of the errors that Proximity plant made and they scored six runs in the top of the fifth and six runs in the top of the sixth to win.

Print Works came from behind with Pineville leading 4 to 0 to win 6 to 5. Lacey Haithcock and Cleo Pegram hitting home runs.

In the second round of play at 2 o'clock, Rayon defeated Proximity Office 6 to 3 behind the pitching of Herman Hinshaw and Print Works defeated Haw River 7 to 4.

In the final game, at eight o'clock, Mo Obrien held the strong Rayon plant to only 4 hits while the Print Works were getting 19 hits off the tired Herman Hinshaw who had already pitched 17 innings of ball to win 9 to 8. Print Works scored in every inning including the extra inning of play. Print Works took a 5 to 1 lead in the first four innings and Rayon tied the score 8 up in the bottom of the 7th off three walks and an error to score four runs. Print Works then came back to score one run in the top of the 8th and held Rayon in the bottom of the 8th to win.

Beautiful trophies were presented to the winning and runner up teams. Cleo Pegram was picked outstanding player for the Tournament and was awarded the outstanding players trophy. Cleo got five hits for five times at bat in the final game.

organized Cone Export & Commission Co., which became selling agents for Cliffside Mills.

"Through the years there existed a close bond of friendship between Ceasar Cone and R. R. Haynes. These two friends, closely associated in a mutual interest, died in 1917, the death of Mr. Cone following within three weeks the death of Mr. Haynes."

The history tells of the organization of the Cliffside Railroad Company, The Haynes Bank, Cliffside School, Cliffside churches, Cliffside Bank, and Cliffside stores.

The character of Mr. Haynes is described:

"Mr. Haynes' life was a busy and productive one. His success while having a modest beginning, grew steadily through the years. Careful management of all his enterprises, giving thought to little things, practicing economy, being never wasteful, characterized him as a man destined for success in all his undertakings."

The book describes his sense of humor, his love of education his friendliness and his reliance on the teachings of the Bible.

After the death of the Cliffside founder, the board of directors elected his son, Charles H. Haynes president. Mr. Charles Haynes retired from the presidency in 1945 when he was elected chairman of the board of directors, from which position he retired in 1951. When Cliffside Mills and its Haynes Mill Plant consolidated with Cone Mills Corporation, he was made a director of Cone Mills.

Timely Thoughts on Traffic Toll

Vacation time is here again. That means millions of Americans will soon be piling in the family car and taking off for a motor trip. Automobile accidents resulting from these pleasure jaunts killed 38,300 people last year—and almost half of the deaths occurred on weekends. Another 1,350,000 were injured.

To avoid a similar toll this year safety experts are advocating the following automobile safety rules. Memorize them—they may save your life:

(1) Never drive after drinking—and don't drink alcoholic beverages if you plan to drive.

(2) Don't pass on hills or curves—and never cut in sharply.

(3) On long trips be sure to "take a break" every two or three hours. A stop for coffee or some similar beverage keeps reflex action at a peak.

(4) Never get closer than 90 to 100 feet behind the car ahead of you. The military uses one yard per mile per hour as a standard. It's a good rule. If you're going 50 mph stay 50 yards behind the car in front.

(5) Don't try to keep up with the speed limit—make it a habit never to drive too fast for highway conditions, no matter what the speed limit is.

(6) Don't cross intersections unless you're sure you have the right of way. And don't insist on the right of way. It's often safer to let the other fellow have it, whether he is entitled to it or not.

(7) Don't drive if you are at all drowsy or sleepy. Pull off the road and have a cup of coffee and rest a bit. Better arrive late than not at all.

Lunch

Lunches will be served at cost. Schools on the child feeding program will sell the plate lunch for .30c. It includes a meat, two vegetables, bread, milk and dessert.

The school operated cafeterias serve a plate lunch of meat, two vegetables, bread, milk and dessert for .40c. Vegetable plate with two vegetables, bread, milk, dessert, sell for .30c. In the independently operated cafeterias individual items of food may be purchased to the extent that the pupils wish.

Parents are urged to patronize the cafeterias. It is in itself a valuable educational experience. A wholesome lunch meeting one-third of the food requirements for the day is served at cost. Staying at the school obviates a hasty trip home, incurring traffic and weather hazards, and other objectionable features of leaving the school grounds.
